Equipment of British Teams

Reference: ( )

1. Para. 1. d. of the attachment to reference states that the members of the five-man British team which exfiltrated from Albania on 3-5 August 1952 were equipped with American carbines.

2. We feel that the combination of American carbines and American dollars as team equipment is almost certain to brand any team so equipped as an American-sponsored mission.

3. Since the currency problem is one which plagues everyone and dollars are known to be negotiable, we cannot object to their use. However, it is requested that you advise ( ) that we regard the use of American carbines as undesirable and that you suggest to him that future teams be furnished with some other type arms.
